1935 CHRISTMAS SEALS ARE RECEIVED HERE THIS WEEK

The 1935 Christmas Seals to help fight tuberculosis have been received by the Miss Katherine man. The seals this year are of entirely different coloring and design from anything previously used. The stamp depicts an old fashioned girl, dressed in deep red on a blue background, in the act of mailing a check as payment of the seals. (Ed.—This is one of the world's greatest efforts in the realm of human help so be sure and dress up your correspondence this year with these seals. Not only buy them but use them.

ROOSEVELT JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL GETS WPA HELP

What we are able to report on th's week is that Roosevelt Junior High School construction has been allotted about $34,000. under the new PWA project.

What we are not able to report on is the total amount of money that has been spent on this school.

Judging from the amount of money that has been spent on this building we may expect to find 24-karat gold floors and ivory pillars when it is finally thrown open to the inspection of the unfortunate taxpayer.

That Point Fire Truck

Years ago when the Point Richmond Fire Department was organized we had nothing but a handcart. Wiley and Joe Willis and Feudner and all of them had a rope with two wheels and a ten-gallon tank to fight fire with—and a bell to call out all the citizens to attend the fire.

We went through all the cycles of evolution, bettering ourselves about three degrees at a time, but never did we elevate ourselves to a place where we thought we had real fire protection.

We originated the fire department in this town, and we never had a truck that would run on anything but flat ground.

Along in the early '20s, Fire Chief Lamoine discovered that the city council, itself, had made a fatal failure of not exploring Point Richmond thoroughly. And then what happened? They gave us a blooming Seagrave that couldn't get out of first gear.

It takes a truck that will conquer a 12½ per cent grade to navigate our main thoroughfare.

The old buss was all right after she got started, but being that they didn't have a continual fire underneath the carburetor all the time, and had to go to work and crank her up cold, she refused to budge without coaxing.

This year (1935) the main excuse for raising city taxes was that they were setting aside about $8,000 to replace an antiquated fire truck in Point Richmond.

Last Monday night at council meeting when Councilman Imbach who is fire committee chairman, and Fire Chief Cooper seemed to be on our (Point Richmond) side we did expect to get a truck that would fulfill our ambition. And then the council voted it down by five to four.

Now they are calling for new bids on a 750-gallon pumper in a gear that would conquer Pike's Peak.

What we want to know is, is it the truth they are doing this to get a big truck over on the other side and then placate us with a second-hand, nearly-worn-out one that may be worse than the old Seagrave.

Or is it possible that they wouldn't let the bids until they had heard from Seagraves?!!

— — — —

Anyway, if the Point Richmond fire truck is the excuse for raising the city taxes, for Pete's sake, at least give us the truck!

Martinez Dinner of Democratic Committee Strikes Keynote for Campaign Next Year

"Back Roosevelt"

Critics of the Admistration Are Answered As Democrats Meet

In clear and ringing tones the sincerity of Joseph J. Rosborough's address at Martinez last Tuesday night climaxed a meeting of Democrats which sounded the keynote of the coming campaign in Contra Costa County for 1936.

From the moment when "Gus" Lang, acknowledged dean of Democrats here, took cup in hand to toast the President until County Chairman Robert Willis adjourned the meeting vigorous democratic forensics held sway—which argu's for a vigorous presidential campaign in '36 to nullify the efforts of those who would detract from the greatest president this nation has known since Washington and Lincoln—President Franklin Delano Rosevelt!

Leading the speakers roster was Lowell Miller of Oakland, head of the Young Democrats in this section and president of the Sixth Congressional Conference. Lowell stated:

"Politics has become a serious matter to us of the younger generation. Some of you older people here tonight are not faced with the same situation that we younger men and women are. We live in this country and we are starting in now to make this as good a country as we know how. That is why we are behind Franklin D. Roosevelt 100 per cent."

Mr. Miller gave details of the late lamented meeting of "young" Republicans in Oakland, stating that the "youngest" at the meeting was 42 years old! ExPresident Hoover was in attendance, and the "boys" felt perfectly at home.

Attorney Ehrlich Speaks

After Miller came J. W. Ehrlich, San Francisco attorney, native of "below the Mason-Dixie line" and he lived up to his Southern reputation in full measure. He lashed in to ex-president Hoover and, reminiscent of the 1928 campaign, he asserted that our one-time president was once registered to vote in England. Ehrlich quoted from Theodore Raoosevelt who advocated a change in the Constitution to limit the power of the supreme court! He also paid his respects to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the excavalry sergeant and to "Wee Willie" Hearst, the latter drawing his usual quota of "boos." Ehrich finished his speech with a fine peroration in which he stated that the Democratic party is true tto its trust and is objective is to "bring about a Broherhood of Man under the divine Fatherhood of God."

Arnold Linschied of Pittsburg spoke briefly, and Judge A. F. Bray, guest, once Republican stalwart but now non-partisan superior court judge, made a humorous quip when he held up a red donkey which decorated the table as "the emblem of your party."

Chivalrous Chauncey Tramutola who is a familiar speaker at Democrat gatherings in this county ever since the Al Smith campaign featured the fact that most of the criticism that is being levelleed at the President is on account of the emergency appropriations for relief and asked who can consistently object to the absolutely neccessary amounts which alleviate human misery. Tramutola is confident of the President's election next year, wagering that the Republican candidate will not get more than 150 electoral votes out of a total of 531. (Hoover in '32 got 59).

Chauncey Tramutola Predicts

District Attorney Healey, democrat, was present and made a talk in which he stated that the President has always stood for "the poorest man until hegets an honest day's living." Sheriff John A. Miller, a guest, spoke briefly and thanked the assemblage for the invitation, asserting that in election last year, though non-partisan he had received many votes from the democrats for which he was appreciative. Mrs. Ellen E. O'Brien was introduced.

Miss Emma Pearman, active as a member of the central committee explained the "reporter plan" under which the women's division operates. She introduced Miss Dorothy Williams, Assistant U. S. Attorney in San Francisco, who delivered the most consistent and logical address on the American Constitution it has ever been our pleasure to hear.

Rosborough Tells of Roosevelt

Chairman Willis then introduced Joseph J. Rosborough who is chairman of the National Emergency Council of Northern California. His vivid description of the personality of the President was the high spot of the meeting.

"It was in 1916 I had the pleasure of traveling across the continent with Franklin D. Roosevelt on the special Woodrow Wilson train," the speaker said. "Even at that date Mr. Roosevelt was distguished for his wide grasp of governmental problems and I prized the hours I was privileged to converse with him intimately. Then, a month or so ago, when Colonel Sears and myself were called to Los Angeles, met him for the first time in 20 years, yet no greeting I have ever received from a man will ever so impress me. As we sat at the table hesaid, 'Joe, we are not getting a square deal from the press and we must go to th air.' What obstacles has not this president overcome, and what strength has he not developed in order to lead us like Moses of old from out a desert of depression to the land of greater prosperity.,,

The speaker briefly reviewed the career of Franklin Roosevelt from his preparatory school days at Groton where he graduated with highest honors,then finishing a four-year course at Harvard in three years; to Columbia for his law; and a European trip. Coming back, he was elected as assemblyman and then State Senator in New York. Acted as Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the World War. Nominated for vice

SYNOPSIS

Anna ("Silver") Grenoble, daughter of "Gentleman Jim," formerly of the community, but known as a gambler, news of whose recent murder in Chicago has reached the town, comes to Heron River to live with Sophronia Willard, Jim Grenoble's sister. Sophronia's household consists of her husband, and stepsons, Roderick and Jason. The Willards own only half of the farm, the other half being Anna's. On Silver's arrival Duke Melbank, shiftless youth, makes himself obnoxious. Roderick is on the eve of marriage to Corinne Meader. Silver says she wants to live on the farm, and has no intention of selling her half, which the Willards had feared. Silver tells Sophronia ("Phronie," by request) something—but by no means all—of her relations with Gerald Lucas, gambler friend of her father. Roddy marries Corinne. She has a maid, Paula, who seems to attract Jason. Silver again meets Lucas, who has established a gambling resort near town. She introduces him to Corinne, though against her will. Friendship between the two develops, to Silver's dismay. At a dance Duke Melbank insults Silver. Roddy's solicitude brings Silver to the realization that she loves him. Roddy is offered a position at the University farm, but, to Corinne's dismay, he declines it, declaring he is a farmer, not a "white collar man." Determined to break up the growing intimacy between Lucas and Corinne, Silver tells Roddy she has decided to sell her portion of the farm. Not understanding, he reproaches her for her "treachery." Jason and Paula become engaged. Roddy finds he is falling in love with Silver, and is dismayed. Silver warns Corinne against Lucas. Despite herself, her love for Roddy grows, but she determines to save Corinne from disaster.

He slowed down as he saw a horse and rider. It was Silver Grenoble.

"Where do you think you're going, all by yourself?" he laughed.

"If you really must know," she replied, "I'm going down to get some dogweed near the lake."

"Why don't you come up to the house some evening when I'm around? Gosh, I haven't seen anything of you since Christmas!"

"I've been busy," Silver retorted simply.

Roddy smiled. "Busy giving lessons in good cheer to my adorable wife, eh? Well, you've made a good job of it."

"Run along and get your dogweed, then," he said hurriedly, and started his car.

As he continued on his way, Roddy found that he could not dismiss from his mind that swift, baffling blush his sally had won from her. Her face had had the delicate, flushed courage of a spring flower. She was not of the land in the same sense that Paula Gobel was. Paula was like a field of ripe wheat. But Silver Grenoble had an earthy quality all her own; she was like young grass in a pale spring sun, or sheet lightning in a summer dusk, or the shadow of a bird's wing over water. Roddy was glad that he could regard her so disinterestedly now, for her own fine values.

In a dappled enclosure of birches where new leaves were like a sunny green rain, Corinne Willard leaned against a tree. Gerald Lucas was looking down at her with a contemplative, a masterful smile, that thrilled and frightened her, and made her feel at the same time triumphant.

"Haven't we been playing tag long enough, darling?" he asked softly. "Why don't you admit that I love you?"

Corinne laughed throatily. "What a sweet new way you have of putting it, Jerry," she said, and lifting her hand she ran her fingers through his hair.

Beyond her shoulders, at the top of a grassy crest where the trees opened, Gerald saw Silver Grenoble seated on her horse and staring at them with wide eyes.

CHAPTER X

PREPARATIONS for the wedding of Paula and Jason stressed rather than relieved Silver's sense of loneliness. Here were two, at least, who were going forward with their lives unaware of the defeat and helplessness that were stalking about them.

After supper on the evening before the wedding day, Roddy and Jason were at work in the sitting room of the stone house on a wooden lattice which when decked with chokecherry and plum blossoms, would form a bower about the bride and groom for the ceremony.

Paula was watching the progress of Roddy's and Jason's work when Corinne entered in her green tweed riding habit.

"You're back early," Roddy said. "Didn't the Richters give you a nice dinner party?"

She seated herself. "Oh, it was all right. They had a lot of dull people up from town—rather tiresome."

Corinne pulled off her gauntlets. "I'm going to miss Paula terribly," she said, and made a sweet, dejected little moue at the big German girl, who was still standing with her hands pressed nervously against the back of a chair.

A few moments later Roddy and Corinne left for the big house. As soon as they were outside Corinne took his arm and drew herself close to him.

"I want you to do something for me, darling," she said in her sweetest manner. "I simply can't be at the wedding tomorrow. And I want you to explain it to the family. I know it sounds terrible to you, darling," she went on. "But Evelyn Richter told me tonight that Harrison's are having a big sale tomorrow in the city—just for one day. It's an awfully exclusive shop, you know, and I'll be saving money if I take advantage of the sale. I can stay over night at the Lombards' and it won't mean any extra expense."

"It'll cost you six dollars in gas to go there and back in the car—and more if you take the bus," Roddy said.

"Evelyn is going down first thing in the morning and she has promised to call for me and bring me back."

"But, Lord! How am I going to explain it to the folks? Paula will feel hurt no matter what I say to—"

"I'll speak to Paula tonight. I might fib a little if necessary, and tell her I have to go to mother."

"Why not tell her the truth—if you have to tell her anything?"

"After all, Roddy, there's no need of hurting the girl's feelings any more than necessary."

"It seems to me you aren't giving much consideration to her feelings as it is."

Corinne drew away from him. "I have done far more for her than lots of women would for their maids. You seem to forget that I've suffered no end of embarrassment ever since I knew that Jason was going to marry her. Having a maid working for you every day—and knowing that she is going to marry one of the family—I've never said anything about it, but—"

"What's wrong with it?" Roddy demanded.

Corinne shrugged her shoulders. "Well—I don't expect you to see it from my point of view, of course. After all, it's none of my business. What I think—or feel—doesn't seem to matter much anyhow."

Anger flamed suddenly within Roddy. He checked the retort that sprang to his lips. They had arrived before the door of the big house. He turned away abruptly and started for the barnyard.

"Aren't you coming in?" Corinne asked in surprise.

"I have some work to do first," he told her.

She paused with her hand on the door. "But—what shall I do about tomorrow? Evelyn is coming immediately after breakfast."

"Do whatever you like about it," he said. "I don't give a d—n!"

In the afternoon of the next day, Jason and Paula departed. It had been a fine wedding. Sophronia thought with a swelling heart, as fine as any farmer could afford these days.

Under the big oak a number of the farm boys had seated themselves and were tuning up on guitar, accordion, harmonica and violin. Presently a lively melody was lilting upward through the rugged branches of the trees.

"Come on, Phronie!" old Roderick called, his eyes wistfully following Silver and the older Michener boy as they exhibited an intricate and amusing fox-trot step.

"Oh, go on with you!" Phronie expostulated, blushing, and was forthwith swept into Roderick's old-fashioned and courtly embrace.

Twice, three times around the circle of the great oak's shade they waltzed, old Roderick adapting his knowledge of dance figures resolutely and gallantly to the outlandish new tempo amidst cheers and clapping of hands. At last, breathless and bridling rosily as a girl, Sophronia stopped in front of the door. Old Roderick bowed low over her hand, and the applause and laughter whirled about them.

"But, Lord! How Am I Going to Explain It to the Folks?"

"Go on with you, silly!" Sophronia said, and gave Roderick a little push. "I'm thinkin' the cider pitchers need fillin'."

In the kitchen she found Roddy alone.

"Why don't you go out and join in the fun?" she asked.

"I guess I'm not in the mood," he replied.

Phronie gave him a sharp glance. "Small wonder!" she remarked. "When do you expect Corinne back?"

"Tomorrow night," Roddy said, without looking around.

"Well—I don't understand what got into her to go off—"

"I'd rather not talk about it," Roddy interrupted.

"No—I suppose the least said about it the better," Phronie agreed. "I don't know what to think about it, but I wouldn't go moonin' about the house for anyone. I never did—and I never would. Why don't you get out and dance with the rest of them? No one will ever thank you for bein' a soft-hearted fool over any woman, even if she is your wife."

Roddy began impatiently rolling a cigarette. "A devil of a lot you know about it!" he exploded.

Phronie looked at him in surprise. "I know you've never talked like that to me in your life before," she said.

Roddy got to his feet and put an arm about her. "I don't mean it like that, ma," he said affectionately. "You know I don't. But there's more to this than I want to talk about. Now that Paula's gone I don't know how we're going to get along up at the house. I can't afford another girl, and Corinne doesn't know a darn thing about housework. Even if she did—she isn't strong enough to do it."

"Have you told Corinne about that?" Sophronia asked.

"Yes," he said darkly, "I told her."

"Well, there's no use borrowin' trouble. Corinne will swing into it when she knows she has to, like anyone else. I'll come up now and then to help her get started—and Silver will be glad to give a hand when it's needed. I don't know how I'd do without that girl."

* * * * * * *

Corinne did not return on the following afternoon. She telephoned Roddy to explain that she had not completed her shopping and that rather than drive home after dark, Evelyn Richter preferred to stay in town for the night. She herself would stay with the Lombards. And was the wedding a lot of fun, and how was he feeling? Roddy, listening to her tumbling, sweetly inflected questions, and giving his monosyllabic replies, stared at the wall beside the telephone.

Even after he had hung up the receiver, he continued to stare at the same spot on the wall. There had been something in Corinne's voice—an over-emphasis of apology, of solicitude.

He had tried to talk to Corinne about his corn, but she had given him only her patient smile. "You would have made a good artist, Roddy," she said once, "—one of these futurist artists who usually starve to death in a garret unless they have a patron."

Roddy ran the brush aimlessly over his hair and returned downstairs. At the supper table, he told Sophronia that Corinne would not be home until some time tomorrow. "You'll have Steve and me on your hands for another day," he said.

"And why not?" Phronie replied. "Though the way you're boltin' your food, I have a notion to let you go without."

Steve chuckled. "It's that cornfield of his," he volunteered. "He's scared it won't be there in the morning."

"Are you going back to finish it tonight, Roddy?" his father asked.

Roddy did not raise his eyes. "I'm going to try," he said.

Phronie glanced across at him. "I was hopin' you'd stay around tonight. It's sort o' lonesome with Jase and Paula gone. Have another cup of tea. And take it easy or you'll be gettin' your stomach all upset."

He gave a short laugh that fell ominously on Sophronia's ears. Then he remained as preoccupied as if he were alone at the table. It occurred to Sophronia that Silver, too, appeared lost in her own thoughts. Once she caught Silver staring at Roddy with a stricken expression in her eyes. Something, Phronie concluded, was amiss, and unless she was a dundering idiot, she knew what it was.

The meal over, Roddy left the table immediately and started for the fields.

"That corn of his is just an excuse," Sophronia declared. "He's workin' his head off these days to keep from goin' crazy with worry. It ain't fair!"

"Well, it won't do much good if you add your worry to his," old Roderick remarked. "Whatever is to be will be," he said finally, "and there's no preventing either mildew or a good harvest."

Like a striking of cymbals, old Roderick's words smote a dark music into Silver's mind . . . "There's no preventing either mildew or a good harvest."

CHAPTER XI

IT WAS already dark before Corinne returned home on the following evening. Roddy had heard the muffled approach of Evelyn Richter's automobile. He went out of the back door just as the car came to a stop in the yard.

Corinne stepped down and Roddy put his arms about her.

"Corrie!" he cried. "What has kept you so late? I've been imagining all sorts of things—accidents—"

Corinne laughed and released herself. "Nonsense! Help me get these parcels out. Evelyn has to hurry.

In the living room, Corinne's purchases were placed on the couch.

"I have some coffee percolating for you, Corrie," Roddy said. "While you unwrap those things I'll go and get it."

"Sweet of you, Roddy," Corinne said absently, while she untied a string that bound her hat-box.

When he returned with the two cups of coffee and set them on the small table in the corner of the room, Corinne came in from the hall where she had put on her new hat in front of the mirror in the hat-rack.

"Isn't it darling!" she exclaimed, resting her head sideways toward her shoulder as she smiled up at him.

"Very fetching," Roddy laughed.

"And, Roddy!" Corinne drew a deep breath. "Only eight-fifty—reduced from twenty-one dollars! And it will do me until fall. Roddy! Don't you adore it?"

"Sure! It looks great, but—"

"Of course, it's exclusive. You've got to pay for models like this unless—"

"What else did you get?" he asked her, seating himself. "You'd better drink your coffee before it gets cold."

Corinne unwrapped a box containing a pair of high-heeled, blue-kid pumps. "These were on sale, too. Eighteen dollars—reduced to eleven fifty. Aren't they sweet? Cut steel buckles—the buckles are expensive, you know, but they'll do on other shoes later. I'll take the other things upstairs to unpack them. You wouldn't be interested in them. Stockings—gloves—underwear—and I simply had to have a bottle of toilet water and some face cream and powder. Those things look small, but they count up when you come to buy them." She laughed. "I have only forty-five cents left out of what you gave me, Roddy."

Roddy regarded her with dull wonder. "Didn't you get yourself a dress, or a coat, or anything—anything substantial?" he asked her, and felt immediately that what he had said was somewhat incoherent.

Corinne laughed, but Roddy thought there was a hard little edge to her laugh. "How could I—with what you gave me? There's no economy in buying cheap things that will look like rags in a week. I can wait until—"

"You'll probably have to wait for quite a while," he observed somberly. "Can't you see that we'll need every penny just to keep going?"

"Well—after all, I don't know anything about such things," she protested negligently.

"I guess there must be something the matter with me," he muttered, and as he heard his own voice he was struck with the utter strangeness of it. "I have done my best to explain our position to you, Corinne. I told you I had overdrawn my account at the bank before we sold the grain. You either can't understand—or you don't care. I wish to God you'd tell me which it is!"

Corinne faced Roddy with blazing eyes.

POINT RICHMOND HOSTELRY IS SCENE OF CONTRA COSTA COUNTY BAKERS ASSN. MEET

Host this Wednesday to the bakers of Contra Costa County was the genial annd philosophical Felix Strubreither, master salesman of the Fleischmann organization. We, in Point Richmond appreciate the fact that "Felix," as heis affectionately called, chose our fair city as the spot in which to stage his banquet. More power to him!

Incidentally, the Contra Costa Bakers Association, of which Mr. Henry Heinemann is president, is making a name for Richmond as being one of the finest trade organizations in the state. Assisting Mr. Strubreither were Messrs. Foster and Parker,and a pleasant and profitable business meeting transpired. Supervisor James N. Long and Sanitary Inspector Herb Blake have been given honorary membership for their assistance in helping the bakers solve their problems.

We have often thought what a real constructive effort could be made for the city if all the trade associations such as the bakers, the grocers, the laundrymen, the merchants, etc., would go together on some definite plan to boost the City of Richmond. We know of the activities of the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants Association, etc., but the smaller organizations have the better contact; and when grouped ogether they are a power.

TIRES

For many years now, it is a custom among those Richmond motorists who are most particular about their cars to drive in to COSTER, & SON—the TIRE MEN, to have them look over the rubber "shoes". The reason for this is that this firm is noted for expert advice in our chosen line. Whether it is a new tire, a re-tread or a job of vulcanizing, there is no better place in this world to come than to.....

Date Bureau Adds Spice to Life

"He must be dark and handsome, have a smart roadster and know how to dance." These are some of the qualifications demanded of Occidental college men by co-eds who patronize the campus date bureau which is now in operation in Los Angeles. Lonely hearts, in strictest confidence, may obtain escorts for any occasion, according to a notice published in the college paper. The registration charge is 10 cents and if the bureau arranges a date with a specified individual, the price jumps to 20 cents.

Home of the Lees Becomes a Shrine

Stratford Hall, birthplace of Gen. Robert E. Lee and the home for generations of a family which has given many famous men to the nation, has become a part of the national heritage. Purchased and restored by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, the house, built 200 years ago by Thomas Lee, colonial governor of Virginia, with its 1,000 acre estate, was dedicated in the presence of more than 3,000 men and women at Stratford, Va.

STAND BY YOUR SHIP!

By Ann Arden

A mother who tells me that several years ago she left a very devoted husband, a boy and a girl of high school age, to marry a much younger man than herself, is bored and restless at home. She would like to get out in the world and work at something. She has a child by the second husband.

The trouble with you, dear mother, is that you have not yet learned to "stick with the ship." What you need to do is to school yourself in the faithful performance of duty. You deserted your first family when it needed you as adolescent youngsters certainly do need a mother. I assume you are in your thirties. Can you not realize that at your age you should have conquered your apparent restlessness, that it has been a detrimental characteristic of you and that, unless you do conquer, it will bring you no end of trouble? Determine to make a success of this second marriage and you will have to decide that marrying and homemaking is not a game that one plays for a very short time and turn to someelse when the glamour or the romance or whatever it is that you are seeking has worn off. then you are apparently not aware of the fact that the love, the patience and the faith of a woman for her husband and her children is a constant need. And the greatest of these is love. It is the law, the harmony, that holds the planets in their orbits and that clothes the earth wih beauty, inhabits it with life, makes true mothers fine as they are. Can you play this game of love according to the rules and not feel disappointment for yourself?

A career? Dozens of women have tried careering and homemaking. Many have turned back to raising families and to their home life. Many admit they are not able to do two jobs well, and others ought to admit it. Unless you have special aptitude, can earn a good salary, you had better be happy at combining learning with homemaking before you set your heart on the glamour of careering. Few men would attempt two jobs and yet many women foolishly desert their home, ruin their health by attempting more than they are capable of. While your child or children are growing up why not undertake a course of study by extension courses or through your own reading? Make an interesting adventure of good reading and you will find that big people make light of petty worries and distresses; you will laugh with all of them at your follies. Many women in isolated districts who have had no other job but homemaking to turn to, have eventually coupled efficient handicraft, writing, lecturing, with the home job, after their families were grown. Many women who have left their children with the grandmothers, aunts, neighbors, regret too late when they have not only robbed the children of needed devotion, but they themselves have missed many happy hours of contact and opportunity for moral and spiritual inspiration which a true mother is anxious to nurture at the auspicious moment.

When you have determined to strengthen your resistance to restlessness by finding new joy in the faithful performance of duty, your life will take on a new meaning. As you study you will gain new interests and contacts, self-realization, and the further joy of

"The very farthest star
But rims a sea of other stars
That stretches just as far.
The greatest joys of love will be
The joy of going on."
—Sam Walter Foss.

"Blind Jim" Returns Home

John Houston has returned from an extended stay in Fresno reports business conditions good in the San Joaquin Valley metropolis.

Fred F. Brewen reports business conditions some better. Just completed a two-story garage for Mr. Brazillis at Seventh and Barrett and now he is working on improvements for the Joseph Matteucci property on Standard Avenue. Fred has built a world of houses in Point Richmond and they stand as mute testimonials to his efficiency as a builder.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

NO ALKALIES FOR ACID INDIGESTION

MILLIONS have found they do not need to drench their stomachs with strong, caustic alkalies. Physicians have said this habit often brings further acid indigestion. So much more safe and sensible to simply carry a roll of Tums in your pocket. Munch 3 or 4 after meals—or whenever troubled by heartburn, gas, sour stomach. Try them when you feel the effects of last night's party, or when you smoke too much. Tums contain a wonderful antacid which neutralizes acid in the stomach, but never over-alkalizes stomach or blood. As pleasant to eat as candy and only 10c at any drug store.

Washington's Tower of Babel Located in Library of Congress

Washington's Tower of Babel is located in the basement of the Library of Congress. In the modern day it goes by the name of the Polyglot Division of the Government Printing Office.

Recently bound for distribution through the printing office, a technical pamphlet absolutely unique in printing annals, which will go to every city of any consequence in the civilized world, was turned out in this little-known branch. It is called the "Style Manual of Foreign Languages," and is for the universal use of printers and transliterators. It contains the alphabets, vowels and consonants, diphthongs, grammatical and etymological oddities, and rules for the division of words of more than fifty foreign languages and dialects.

Facts Are World Wide.

Information for the compiling of this work came from authorities all over the world, from scholars, libraries and universities. Pundits from the Far East and the hinterlands of little-explored Asia contributed their part. Alphabets of Indian tribes, for example, never before printed anywhere, are here, and are the result of special researchs in the files of the United States Bureau of Etymology carried on by some of this nation's ablest philologists.

The Polyglot Division, with its 29 highly specialized employees, and operating but ten linotype machines, runs off 2,250,000 library cards for the libraries of the world every month in the year. It turns out all the routine job printing work required by the Library of Congress and the Copyright Division—blanks, stationery, publishers' cards and bulletins.

Every linotyper and make-up man in the division has to have a working knowledge of the major portion of the 62 languages and dialects in which the library cards are printed.

Every one of the variety of languages and dialects used in the printing of the cards has its special fonts of type for the linotype machines. There are few exceptions: Japanese and Chinese card entries, for example, are set in Latin characters. A complete set of type characters for either of these languages would occupy more space than is available for all the others put together.

Since no type for Hebrew, Greek, the five Slavic tongues, Anglo-Saxon, or Gaelic, has been supplied for the Polyglot Division, all cards with entries in these languages must be set laboriously by hand. The men who do this particular work are the real specialists of the genuinely exclusive printing shop.—Washington Star.

SPEECH DEFECTS IN ONE-TENTH OF POPULATION

The prevalent belief that a child is expected to go through a period of poor speech has misled parents into a policy of hoping and waiting for the termination of this disturbing period in his development, according to Bryng Bryngelson, Ph. D., who writes on "Speech Problems and Speech Care" in Hygeia. If a child has not established an intelligible speech pattern by the age of four, it is time to have a thorough examination of the child in some reputable speech clinic.

Most speech surveys indicate that a little more than 10 per cent of the population has some type of speech defect.

The usual method of handling a child who has defective sound formation is an attempt to aid the child in correct sound formation by showing him both tongue and lip positions. Not only is this method scientifically unsound but it tends to point out unwholesome speech differences in the child if it is continuously used.

Just as the method of showing tongue positions in an articulatory case breeds inferiority, so the method of taking the words out of the mouth of a stutterer tends to make him self-conscious about his difference in speech. If parents will wait until the stutterer says his words he will not feel that people about him consider him stupid and incapable of knowing what he wants to say. Let the stutterer stutter, and let the lisper lisp. Parents should in no way avoid mentioning the defect to the child, for speaking frankly and objectively about the disorder will tend to effect a wholesome psychologic attitude in the child.

Nature's Ice Box O. K.; Keeps Food 33 Years

Nature's ice box has even the best of mechanical refrigerators skinned when it comes to food preservation. Keeping food in good condition for years is no trick at all for natural cold storage plants such as the Antarctic wastes. According to Dr. Dana Coman, physician and dietician for the Lincoln Ellsworth-Sir Hubert Wilkins expedition, food left in a shack in the South Polar region 33 years ago was found to be still edible when discovered. The long-preserved food supplies were left by a Norwegian explorer, Otto Nordenskjold, in 1902.—Washington Post.

See Ancient City Ruins

The ancient legend that the city of Sanyang was buried under the water of Taihu lake hundreds or even thousands of years ago seems to be confirmed by Chinese fishermen who say the ruins of the ancient city can easily be seen from the surface of the lake.

Lace Handkerchiefs Are New Note in Fall Styles

Handkerchiefs in lace are a new note. These are all-over lace and not lace edged, and are usually in the brighter colors. They vary in size from the ordinary woman's linen handkerchief for day, to something three to six times larger than men's handkerchiefs for evening. The latter are often used over the hair or around the shoulders, rather a smaller edition of the mantilla which is so popular just now.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

SILK LAME WRAP

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It's a modish gesture to top one's velvet evening gown with a wrap of sumptuous, scintillating silk lame. Only when seen in the original can the striking beauty of the model pictured be fully appreciated, for the actual coloring is superb. The glittering orange silk lame of the coat contrasts the black velvet to perfection. A flower of matching orange lame decorates the lapel with high artistry. The lines of this winsome wrap are "young" and flattering. The coat has a back swagger flare such as is characteristic of the newer fashions.

New Capes Will Do Double Duty as Wraps for Autumn

Capes have replaced the fox and sable animals of the spring as the new fur to wear with early fall suits. These capes, longer than the spring capes, will serve double duty, as they make stunning evening wraps.

So good looking are these capes that they have, in one instance, proved irresistible to the fur coat itself. This model, of black broadtail, has a matching broadtail cape edged in silver fox which can be worn separately. The coat is worn either with or without the cape.

The classic mink coat is also accompanied by an occasional cape, just to give it a dash of chic, and ward off the danger of growing staid.

New Velvet

In London they are showing velvet with a reverse angora side for evening wraps. This can be used for unlined wraps.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Lace Dyed Same Color as Frock Used as Trimming

With all this show of soft femininity in fashion, it is quite natural that lace should come strongly into the foreground. Many very lovely dresses are trimmed generously at the neckline with crisp, pure white lace. It looks fresh and is usually becoming.

But for something smart and unusual, lace dyed the same color as the frock, is the answer and the way Paris is doing it. In many blue costumes this fashion is especially noteworthy. The lace is seen in revers, in scarfs that tie into soft bows, in jabots, and in cuffs. One dress from Paris in navy showed lace at the neckline, and going down the entire length of the skirt.

MEANING OF KIDNAPING

Kidnaping has a broad meaning in criminal law and many who have committed this crime unknowingly have been sent to prison. In most states "intent" is not necessary and, secondly, the offense includes "keeping or detaining" anyone against his will. One odd case on record is that of a man who was convicted of kidnaping his wife because he forced her to accompany him on a journey. —Collier's Weekly.

EATS OATMEAL TO HELP KEEP FIT

● It may be one of Nature's lowest cost foods, but lucky is the boy or girl who gets it for breakfast every morning.

Many are nervous, poor in appetite, system out of order, because their daily diets lack enough of the precious Vitamin B for keeping fit.*

Few things keep them back like a lack of this protective food element.

So give everyone Quaker Oats every morning. Because in addition to its generous supply of Vitamin B for keeping fit,* it furnishes food-energy, muscle and body-building ingredients. For about ½c per dish.

Start serving it tomorrow for a 2-weeks test. Quaker Oats has a wholesome, nutlike, luscious appeal to the appetite. Flavory, surpassingly good. All grocers supply it.

IN VITAMIN B FOR KEEPING FIT . . .

SOME INDIANS CANNIBALS

Proof that cannibalism was practiced among American Indians is claimed by Lloyd A. Wilford, anthropologist of the University of Minnesota. An Indian burial mound at Laurel produced skeletons with arm, leg and skull bones crushed to permit drainage of bone marrow, which was used, he believes, either for food or tanning purposes.

Quick, Complete Pleasant ELIMINATION

Let's be frank. There's only one way for your body to rid itself of the waste matters that cause acidity, gas, headaches, bloated feelings and a dozen other discomforts—your intestines must function.

To make them move quickly, pleasantly, completely, without griping. Thousands of physicians recommend Milnesia Wafers. (Dentists recommend Milnesia wafers as an efficient remedy for mouth acidity).

These mint flavored candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly in accordance with the directions on the bottle or tin, then swallowed, they correct acidity, bad breath, flatulence, at their source and at the same time enable quick, complete, pleasant elimination.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48 wafers, at 35c and 60c respectively, or in convenient tins containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately an adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores carry them. Start using these delicious, effective wafers today.

Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letter head.

THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT. under the able direction of James A. Farley, is making some interesting revelations on the ship-subsidy racket. It is conducting speed tests of vessels that have mail contracts. The ships are divided into six classes of speed, and are paid by the mile on a fixed rate. For example, a ship in Cass 5 is certified as being able to make thirteen knots and is paid $4. per nautical mile. A Class 6 ship, of ten knots, paid $2.50 per mile. It now appears that the administration of Hoover, in classifying ships preliminary to awarding mail contracts erred on the side of optimism—doubtless to maintain confidence in the American merchant marine? Of the eleven vessels the Post Office Department has so far tested, only three have made the repuired speeds.

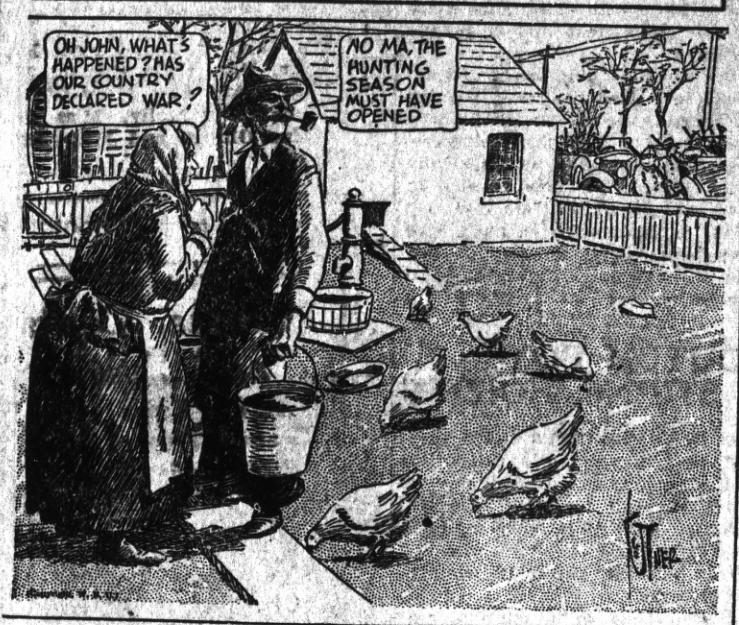

The department has announced that for the life of the contracts the over-rated ships will be paid on the basis of the next lower classification. If the other subsidized vessels make a correspondingly poor showing in tests, large amounts will be saved from the $160,000,000 still allotted to the shipping ring. Unfortunately.' a penalty for over-rating of speed is not to be retroactive.

. A CHALLENGE to both political parties came out of Chicago this last week from the huge Convention of the Townsend Clubs. Townsend Plan, once the rallying point for only those past the age of sixty has become now the symbol for all who are not satisfied with the status quo. In the speech delivered on the last day of the convention, Dr. Townsend indicated that the basis of the Plan had been broadened and that the method of achievement is to be commensurate with present economic realities. The greatest idea at work in the world today is that of making available to all mankind ourbounteous natural resources and the tremendous potentialities of industry. Based on deliberatt judgement, backed by enlightened public opinion, and dealing with the greatest moral issue that has ever affected the welfare of man, this idea is destined to prevade thehearts and minds of the masses until it becomes an established fact.

ATTENTION, Mr. Hearst, Republican Grass Rooters, Flag Wavers, and other Dolts! The following is taken from a letter written by Thomas Jefferson (You have, of courseheard of him, Mr. Hearst for you sometimes give him laudatory mention in your scandal sheets). This letter was written by President Jefferson 29 years after the adoption of the American Constitution.

"Some men look at constitutions with sanctimonious reverence and deem them, like the Ark of the Covenant, too sacred to be touched. They ascribe to the men of the preceding age a wisdom that is more than human, and suppose what they did to be beyond amendment. . .I know that laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened and new discoveries are made,new truths disclosed, and manners and opinions change with the change of circumstances, institutions must advance also, and keep pace with the times. . .Each generation is as independent of the one preceding as that was of all that had gone before. It has then, like them, a right to choose for itself the form of government it believes most promotive of its own happiness. . . .This corporeal globe, and everything upon it, behind our bounteous natural resources and the tremendous potentialities of industry. Based on deliberate judgement and backed by enlightened public opinion, and dealing wth the gratst moral issue that has ever affected the life of man, an idea destined to pervade the heart and mind of of course, heard of him, Hearst we shall go on, as other nations are going on, in the endless circle of oppression, rebellion, reformation; and reformation, oppression, rebellion, again; and so forever.

MEMORIES OF NOTRE DAME

"Oh, Notre Dame, thou beauteous place, where nature teems,
And learning fondly grows apace, while fancy beams,
We love thee for thy beauteous worth, we love thy name,
It is the fairest name on earth, O, Notre Dame, O, Notre Dame

Memories of college days are revived as we receive word from our good friend, Henry C. Soito, that he has been visiting on the campus of our famous alma mater at South Bend. Harry arrived there on October 13th of this year, which is the 93d Anniversary of Founders Day, the school having been founded in 1842 by the Very Rev. Father Edward A. Sorin and a group of pioneering French priests. From a very humble beginning the college has slowly but consistently grown to take its place among the leading universities in the nation. Known to everyone for the prowess of its teams on the football field, Notre Dame, like many of its sister universities today, suffers from the fact that the progress of her sons in the fields of pure science and philosophy is unknown to the average layman, while "the Notre Dame shift" is a by-word with all.. And which, indeed, is no apology for Notre Dame's interest in football, for everyone who has ever been connected with the university —exclusively a man's school—knows that a clean body and stout heart, acquired on the athletic field is essential to clear thinking and a healthy mind. From the days of the brave and patriotic Father Corby, chaplain of Francis B. Meagher's Fighting Irish Regiment in the Civil War down to the present days of Knute Rockne and Father Nieuwland, internationally famous chemist and biologist, the banner of the University of Notre Dame du Lac (Our Lady of the Lake) has been untarnished and unsullied, and we are obliged to Harry Soito for his kindness in reviving college memories on the occasion of the birthday of Father Sorin.

A CHALLENGE TO THE REPUBLICANS

Every day that goes by, as 1936 approaches, we note the effort of our Republican opponents to tear down President Roosevelt and his administration on the basis of "Consttutionality," the brain trust," "alphabetical soup" and other far-fetched criticism.

What about the real problem—the 10 millions of unemployed which remain even after billions of dollars have been spent to put them to work? What about them? Ask any old line Republican, or read their party house-organ, the Saturday Evening Post, and you will be blithely informed (by Samuel G. himself, too) that all that is neccessary to cure unemployment is to give business a free rein—which we suppose means, letting them make their own rules and laws about labor and chid labor, government subsidies to business and banks, etc., and the Full Dinner Pail will return over night. which might sound convincing were it not for the fact that all of these conditions obtained in the days of ex-President Hoover and yet, never in our history was business at such a standstill as on March 3d 1933.

For the benefit of our country, we challenge the Republican party to bring forth a clear-cut plan for the benefit of our distressed countrymen, that will be better than the plan which has kept many a person from actual starvation. In other words, the thing America wants politically for our citizens is liberty and equality along economic lines, not industrial slavery or organized charity. The best solution, the only solution, that has been offered, so far, is President Roosevelt's plan. Will the Republicans kindly remember that fact and come out with a PLAN instead of futile criticism.

Hoare Promises Britain Will Not Fight With Italy—Laval's Peace Efforts Continued—President Roosevelt Returns to Washington.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE, British foreign secretary, assured parliament and the world that Great Britain has no intention of fighting Italy and would not alone apply military sanctions against that nation. He held out strong hopes that the war in Africa could be settled without resort by the league to extreme measures. His speech was plainly an invitation to Italy to talk peace terms.

Sir Samuel Hoare

Denying that the government's policy is hostile to Fascism, Sir Samuel said:

"We have not the least intention of interfering in the domestic affairs of other people."

"The unbroken solidarity of the empire is behind the government's policy," he said. "Let those prophets of misfortune who have marked the empire down for decay and dissolution observe this fact of overwhelming importance."

Hoare hinted at British isolation from continental affairs if the league collapses.

Next day Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin warmly endorsed all that Hoare and Capt. Anthony Eden have done at Geneva. He deprecated even the use of the word war, but called for a rearming of the empire, saying: "In the interests of world peace it is essential our defensive services should be stronger than they are today."

Baldwin announced the adjournment of parliament on October 25 and the election of a new parliament on November 14. The campaign already is under way and is lively, with the international situation furnishing the main issues. The Labor party accuses the government of delaying action in the Italo-Ethiopian embroglio until too late to prove really effective, and impugns its motive in seeking rearmament.

ONE of the government's much publicized efforts to punish alleged income tax evaders of Louisiana failed when a jury in Federal court at New Orleans brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Abraham L. Shushan, one of the close associates of the late Senator Long. The prosecution claimed he owed $71,000 in taxes. The verdict was greeted with loud cheers by the crowd in the courtroom, and in the ensuing confusion several news photographers were beaten up by former members of Long's bodyguard—which seems to be a habit in Louisiana.

MUSSOLINI made one conciliatory gesture toward Great Britain when he agreed to withdraw a division of troops from Libya; and at the same time he urged that France and Britain make quick reply to his peace conditions. But it became known the troops were to be moved from Libya to Tripoli, where they would be almost as much a menace to Egypt; and the duce's peace terms were so drastic that there was no prospect that they would be accepted by anyone concerned. They included disarmament of Ethiopia, an international protectorate over the central regions and an Italian protectorate over the remainder.

Addressing the foreign affairs committee of the French chamber of deputies, Premier Laval promised he would seek only a compromise that would be fully acceptable to the League of Nations. He told the committee that France's battleships would steam immediately to the assistance of Britain if the latter's fleet was attacked by Italy.

Since the first of the year, Laval declared, he had repeatedly called the attention of the Rome government to the stipulation of the league covenant and warned that France could not approve any violation of it.

GEN. RUDOLFO GRAZIANI'S forces in southern Ethiopia were reported to have won several important victories in their advance toward Harrar and the railway. They captured several towns despite desperate resistance by the natives, and took many prisoners. The main movement in that region was up the Webbe Shibeli river. The Ethiopians were repeatedly dispersed by aerial bombardment.

In Tigre province, on the north, the Italians were consolidating their positions and preparing for another big thrust toward Addis Ababa. Their line there extended nearly 70 miles from Adigrat through Aduwa to the holy city of Aksum.

Italian aviator-scouts reported that Ethiopian troops were digging in at Makale, about 60 miles southeast of Aduwa and the next logical objective in the Italian campaign of occupation, forming a major concentration for a dseperate effort to frustrate the next attack.

ALL states and communities have been asked by Aubrey Williams, acting WPA administrator, to make better provision for the care of "unemployables," for federal aid for the needy will soon be confined to providing jobs. In an interview Mr. Williams said that with six states already cut off the dole, progress of the work relief program would bring liquidation of relief administrations in "the great majority of the remaining states" during November. This will leave those physically or mentally unable to work, the aged, mothers with dependent children, and other handicapped families and individuals, dependent upon local efforts.

"It will be next year before the social security program becomes operative, and the states have got to take the responsibility," he said.

WHILE Premier Pierre Laval of France was still trying desperately to find a way of settling the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel that would be acceptable to both Great Britain and Italy — apparently without regard to Ethiopia's real interests—fifty-two members of the League of Nations declared a boycott on all Italian goods and an embargo on various key exports to that country. The boycott binds these nations to prohibit importation of "all goods consigned from and grown, produced or manufactured in Italy or in Italian possessions from whatever place they arrive."

Pierre Laval

If rigidly enforced, this would cut off about two-thirds of the export trade upon which Italy depends in getting funds for prosecution of the war in Africa. The countries applying the sanctions agree to aid one another in compensating losses by increased trade facilities, credits, cash and loans if possible, and discriminating against league members such as Austria and Hungary which continue to trade with Italy.

Austria, Hungary and Albania spoke against the sanctions. Switzerland, which seeks to preserve her traditional neutrality, was silent. Some South American republics made complicated reservations.

It was decided that the sanctions should be put in force on October 31, and Laval thus had time to continue his peace efforts. These seemed to center on a way to "legalize" Italian occupation of that part of northern Ethiopia which Mussolini's troops have seized and to arrange for Italy's partial control over the entire empire.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, deeply tanned and in fine spirits, returned to the White House, his holiday tour ended. When he landed from the cruiser Houston at Charleston, S. C., he told a big crowd gathered to welcome him that the country is on its way back to prosperity under the planned economy of his administration, "and don't let anybody tell you differently."

At an informal press conference just before he left the cruiser, the President was asked to comment on the "impending collapse" of his drive to put three and a half million employables on relief to work by November 1. He replied that November 30 was 39 days off and that November 1 had never been set as the deadline, and that he had been very careful to say that substantially three and a half million persons would be put to work. If three million are at work by November 30 he said he would be satisfied with the four-billion-dollar program, and that it could not then be considered to have fallen down.

One of Mr. Roosevelt's first appointments in Washington was for a talk with Secretary of State Hull on the European situation.

"GERMANY is becoming a barren nation, intellectually, culturally and scientifically, under Hitler." That was the way Alfred E. Smith opened an appeal for financial aid for non-Aryan Christian and political refugees from Germany, at a dinner in New York held under the joint auspices of the American Christian Committee for German Refugees and the Emergency Committee in Aid of Political Refugees from Nazi-ism.

"I am informed that at this very moment I am speaking, 2,500 German refugees are on the verge of starvation," the former New York governor said. "Centers now operating and serving these refugees in Europe must be supplied quickly with money. They need aid, or will be forced to discontinue their work."

Dr. Albert Einstein, the eminent scientist, also was present and said German Fascism is directed mostly "against my Jewish brothers. The reason given is to purify the Aryan race in Germany. As a matter of fact, no such Aryan race exists and the myth of same has been invented solely to motivate the persecution and robbery of the Jews."

FIRST of the big eastern railroads to seek reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act is the New York, New Haven and Hartford, which serves one of the most densely populated sections of the country. Its petition was filed because it was unable to meet taxes of $4,000,000 and interest of $2,200,000.

The railroad had sought another loan from the government, but the Interstate Commerce commission rejected the plea. The company had cleaned its treasury of collateral to secure loans of $7,699,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, $3,531,000 from the Railroad Credit corporation, and $16,000,000 from banks. The Pennsylvania system, which controls about 15 per cent of New Haven stock, did not appear ready to guarantee a further extension of credit.

FOR the third time in his career Mackenzie King is now prime minister of Canada, following the victory of the Liberal party at the polls. Richard B. Bennett and his Conservative cabinet resigned and King was called on to form the new government, which he did at once. He himself was sworn in as prime minister, president of the privy council and secretary of state for external affairs. Thomas A. Crerar of Winnipeg was made minister of mines, immigration and colonization, interior and Indian affairs. Charles A. Dunning of Montreal is the new minister of finance and W. D. Euler of Kitchener has the trade and commerce portfolio. All the cabinet positions except that of agriculture were filled at once.

Mackenzie King

The resignation of W. D. Herridge as minister to Washington was accepted and became immediately effective. The department of national revenue announced cancellation of dumping duties on the following commodities entering Canada: Plums, prunes, radishes, spinach, and peaches.

DEATH came to an eminent American, Maj. Gen. Adolphus W. Greely, U. S. A., retired, at the age of ninety-one years. He passed away in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, and was buried in Arlington National cemetery with full honors. General Greely was universally known as the leader of the ill-fated expedition into the Arctic regions in 1881 from which only he and seven others returned alive. But he had already served in the Civil war with distinction, and his later scientific accomplishments won him international fame and recognition. On his ninety-first birthday, last March 27, he received a medal of honor from congress "for his life of splendid service."

General Greely was one of the original organizers of the National Geographic society, and a member of the board of trustees continously for 47 years from the date of the society's founding in 1888.

EDWARD HENRY CARSON, who in 1921 was made Baron Carson of Duncairn, died in London at the age of eighty-one years, ending a strange and stormy career concerned mainly with Irish politics. A Protestant, he became leader of the Ulster party, organized and led the threatened Ulster rebellion in 1914 against the home rule bill and secured its postponement. When the war broke he turned his army to the battlefields of France and himself entered the British cabinet.

After the war Carson threw himself into the fight against the establishment of the Irish Free State and succeeded in securing the partition by which the six Ulster counties separated from the rest of Ireland.

IN A long and solemn statement the Ethiopian legation in London warned Italy that its "ghastly methods" of warfare, the use of poison gas and dum-dum bullets, would have dire results.

The legation stated that Italy's use of "unfair and ultra-civilized methods of warfare," of which the legation says it has impartial substantiation despite public denials by Ambassador Dino Grandi of Italy, "will lead to the most unfortunate consequences, not only to Italians who will, of course, deserve it, but to all white peoples as well."

The whites, the statement said, "will be intensely hated by all the peoples of Africa and, we think, of Asia also for years to come."

The statement warned that it will not be possible to restrain the wilder section of the Ethiopian army from retaliating in some similar savage method on Italian soldiers who may happen to fall into their hands.

DR. HUGH S. MAGILL, who as president of the American Federation of Investors has been annoyed by congressional investigators, has written to all members of congress a letter asking whether American citizens "still have the right to express their approval or disapproval with respect to pending legislation without being harassed by 'inquisitors.'"

The federation opposed the recent enactment of the "death shentence" for "unnecessary" holding companies, and was under investigation by the senate lobby committee.

In an open letter to senators and representatives, Magill said he had "refused" to permit representatives of the committee "to read my personal and private correspondence." He asserted the federation "is not a lobbying organization as that term is commonly used."

"Having thus been confronted by these inquisitors sent out by a committee of the senate," Magill wrote, "may I inquire in all seriousness whether or not you approve of such action? If you do approve, how can you justify such procedure when the Constitution specifically provides that the 'right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated'?"

ARTHUR HENDERSON, president of the world disarmament conference and a most determined foe of war, died in a London nursing home. He was seventy-two years old and had been ill for a long time, so ill that he had not been permitted to see a newspaper for six weeks and did not know that another war had broken out and that peace in Europe was threatened. The former iron molder of Glasgow who became a leader of the Labor party and was foreign secretary when it was in power, was awarded the Nobel peace prize in 1934. His crusade for peace and disarmament was inspired by the death of his eldest son in the World war. He was a gentle, much loved man, a genuine idealist whose latter years were made sorrowful by the repeated failure of the disarmament conference to get results.

HELENA, capital of Montana, and all the western part of that state were terrified by a series of earthquake shocks extending through a number of days. There were only two fatalities, but numerous buildings were wrecked or so weakened that they had to be razed. Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes, and the suffering was intensified by a sudden fall of the temperature to below freezing. Fortunately the gas mains of the city were not broken. National Guardsmen patrolled the business district and all public places were closed for days.

Senator William E. Murray and Representative John P. Monaghan surveyed the damage, and Murray, terming the quake as "one of Montana's worst disasters," said he would go by airplane to Washington to ask immediate help.

Mrs. Noble Kizer Discusses Life of Coach's Wife

Mrs. Noble Kizer, wife of the Purdue football coach who has kept the Boilermakers near the top of the Big Ten standings since he first became head coach, has been induced to tell readers her reactions to being the wife of a successful mentor. She is Hugh Bradley's guest columnist.

By MRS. NOBLE KIZER

Lafayette, Ind.—When Mr. Bradley asked me to tell, from my viewpoint, how it feels to be the wife of a football coach I must confess I was rather flustered and did not know where or how to begin. The thought of writing a column for a great newspaper audience was overwhelming, particularly because there was no precedent for such an article. Then I remembered that wives of professional men had expressed their reactions in print before and I did not feel like a lonely pioneer.

You see, football coaching is as much of a profession as medicine, law or engineering, requiring the same special training and knowledge—and making for the same problems for the wives. Football is strictly a man's game or business and a coach's wife is supposed to be neither seen nor heard during the season. I've tried to follow that principle at Purdue, although there is a legend on the camps that I was indirectly responsible for the greatest season the university ever had.

Noble Kizer.

My oldest son, Richard Allen, was born in the morning of the game with Michigan in 1929. That afternoon Purdue went into the last quarter losing by 16—6 and came out of it winning, 30—16, after having scored four quick touchdowns. The team then went on to finish the season undefeated and untied, the Western Conference champion. Ever since that time Richard and I have been regarded as unofficial mascots of the team.

Purdue and football have been connected with my family for several years now. My sister Esther is a graduate of Purdue and later married Rip Miller, Navy coach, who played on the line with Noble at Notre Dame on the "Four Horsemen" team of 1924, although Rip and Noble were two of the so-called "Seven Mules." I'm glad that Navy and Purdue do not meet in football, for such a game would strain family relations a little bit, I fear.

Rip Miller.

Football coaches are supposed to be pretty grouchy, difficult people during the season, but as far as I know I can't say that is true. Noble worries, of course, before a big game when the team is not going too well, although he tries to appear unconcerned to me all the time.

BRIGHT SAYINGS

Talking about football, today I found out that there is another team on the Pacific Coast that has not had a defeat this year—the TROTTING Gaels, subsidiary of the well-known GALLOPING Gaels. Last Saturday they held Humboldt State to a scoreless tie, and if they keep that up, the trotters may very well develop into 'lopers.

Dionne Quints are going into the movies, so the papers say, as the little tikes have already begun to squall in English and French. After hearing so much about them, and never having seen movies of them, I will be one of the first to see the PREVIEW when they show here. It will be something to see what children look like when produced on the PENTAGONAL SYSTEM. Film will be full length. Last reports from Ontario are that the little girls are now worth around $200,000—a lot of "DOH" in any man's country. Maybe worth 2 million when they are ready to get hooked up. I think I will wait and pick one of the kids off, myself. I kinda like the French Canadians, anyway.

WALKING ON AIR

Jack Brittingham, brilliant California end, seems to be treading on air as he intercepts this Trojan pass in the third quarter of the California - U. S. C. game. The Bears won, 21 to 7, to continue their drive toward the Pacific Coast Conference championship.

'CIVIL WAR' MAY DECIDE TITLE

California, U. C. L. A., Only Undefeated Teams, Meet In L. A.

A house divided against itself must fall, said Abraham Lincoln, but on Saturday a house divided against itself may very well produce the Pacific Coast Conference football champion of 1935.

The University of California and its younger brother, the University of California at Los Angeles, the only undefeated conference elevens, meet in Los Angeles' Coliseum, and the winner must be conceded the inside track toward the Western title.

He Can't Lose

Only sure winner of the day is Doctor Robert Gordon Sproul, who, as president of both institutions, must divide his allegiance, sit on both sides of the field during the game.

On this game, too, hinges the hopes of Southern California fans for a grid champion, something they have become quite used to. Last week, the romping Golden Bears downed the Trojans of U. S. C., who always before have borne the main burden of Southern California ambitions. The score was 21 to 7, might well have been 21 to 0 but for a mysterious kick which was blocked and converted into a touchdown. It was the last play of the game.

The U. C. L. A. Bruins added to their surprising string of victories by walloping Oregon, 33 to 6. Despite that crushing defeat, Oregon's coach, Prink Callison, still leans toward the Berkeley Bears to win Saturday. Said Prink to the Associated Oil Company Football Scout, "The Bears are too strong defensively for the Bruins. If they stop Cheshire they will win."

Cards Have Fight

While the only two unbeaten teams are battling it out in Los Angeles, Stanford, which literally kicked itself back into the conference race Saturday by beating the powerful Washington Huskies by the margin of Jim Moscrip's two field goals, will have a real fight on its hands, although not a conference contest. The Cards play host to Santa Clara's Broncos, a tough team on any afternoon. Last year's meeting between the two ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

The battle of the two University of California teams and the Stanford-Santa Clara fray are not the only good games scheduled for this week-end, even if the dope book would indicate that they will be the closest fought. There is the Washington State-Gonzaga game at Pullman, the Montana-Washington contest at Seattle, the University of Portland-Oregon State battle at Corvallis, and on Sunday, the annual meeting of the University of San Francisco Dons and the Loyola Lions of Los Angeles.

Last week Washington State beat Oregon State 26 to 13, Santa Clara licked Portland 20 to 7, Idaho nosed out Montana 14 to 7, Gonzaga smothered Washburn 21 to 0, Loyola defeated Texas Tech 16 to 0, and San Francisco lost to St. Mary's 13 to 0.

This Week's Games

California vs. U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles (3-0).

Santa Clara vs. Stanford at Palo Alto (7-7).

Gonzaga vs. Washington State at Pullman (13-6).

Montana vs. Washington at Seattle.

Portland vs. O. S. C. at Corvallis (12-36).

Loyola vs. U. S. F. at San Francisco (0-0).

LABOR WARS ON SALES TAX

Edward D. Vandeleur, state president of the California Federation of Labor, yesterday announced the early launching of a statewide campaign for the repeal of the iniquitous sales tax through passage of the Ralston Amendment.

At the recent State Labor Convention at San Diego where the Ralston Amendment exempting $1000 of all improvements and providing for the immediate repeal of the sales tax was again endorsed by a unanimous vote. Vandeleur said he found a vigorous growing sentiment for repeal of this unfair impost on working men and women.

Boy Scouts - Troop Nine

Troop Nine of the Boy Scouts was entertained at a wonderful Halloween Party inn the lovely gardens of the beautiful R. H. Spiersch home here last week. Games were enjoyed by the boys and nice refreshments served to the members of the hungry troop at the close of the evening.

ELECTRIC RATES REDUCED

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

Pacific Gas and Electric Company is pleased to announce another reduction in electric rates amounting to approximately $4,000,000 per year.

Beginning with January bills lower rates will become effective for household electric service, for commercial lighting, and for power service for large commercial and industrial establishments.

Of the $4,000,000 represented by the reduction, $2,000,000 per year will go to domestic customers, $1,000,000 to commercial lighting customers, and $1,000,000 to power customers.

The top lighting rate in incorporated cities and towns is lowered from 4.5 cents to 4 cents per kilowatt hour, and the second block from 3.5 cents to 2.5 cents per kilowatt hour, both blocks being slightly lengthened. Domestic customers who use 60 kilowatt hours per month, which is the average domestic consumption, will benefit by a 10.7 per cent reduction. In rural districts the rates for both first and second blocks are reduced one-half cent per kilowatt hour, these blocks also being somewhat extended.

A year ago, when we offered a special inducement rate to encourage increased use of electricity, we said, "It is our hope and expectation that this offer will so stimulate the use of electricity as to justify a reduction in the regular schedules." This hope has been realized. There has been a gratifying increased use which has helped to make possible the present reduction.

Increased consumption, however, does not tell the whole story. During recent months we have substantially reduced bond interest charges. We have consolidated properties and lowered operating costs. We have put economies into effect in every department. These savings we are now passing along to our customers in lower rates.

We are counting, too, on better business conditions and these reduced rates to stimulate greater use of electricity.

We are making this reduction despite continued increases in taxes, well illustrated by the fact that in 1934 the company paid $1,146,000 more in taxes, federal, state, and local, than in the preceding year.

The trend of our rates is and always has been downward. Going back only eight years, the company in 1928 reduced its charges $2,418,900 per year. This was followed in 1930 by another reduction of $3,020,000 per year. This year customers will save $1,600,000 through the temporary inducement rate. The present reduction will save an additional $3,924,000 per year. These successive rate reductions will represent accumulated savings to our electric customers of $54,621,000 by the end of 1936.

These new rates will enable our customers to enjoy greater electric comforts and conveniences. We are especially gratified to be able to reduce the cost of electric service at this time when general costs of living are steadily rising.
